HERITAGE AND NATURE

Cinctorres is located on a plateau between Monte Bovalar and the valley of the river Caldés. Thanks to this location it offers spectacular panoramic views, such as those of the Roca Parda and the Roca Roja, both separated by the bed of the Rambla Celumbres, which form an impressive natural landscape, from where you can also enjoy birdwatching. The town also has a rich heritage, thanks to its historical legacy. Among them, the palaeontological remains found at the Ana site, which can be seen at the Dinomania Museum, are particularly noteworthy. This site can also be visited, and guided tours and excavations are organised throughout the year. Cinctorres also has defensive constructions from the Arab period, such as the Torre de los Moros (Moorish Tower) and numerous chapels and civil constructions throughout the municipality. The textile tradition was also very important in the 20th century, especially through the production of belts.

HISTORY OF CINCTORRES

Apart from the archaeological remains from the Eneolithic period and the abundant Iberian remains, Cinctorres may have existed as such in Arab times, as it is included in the Town Charter of Camarón dating from 1194. After the Reconquest, it was repopulated by Blasco de Alagón in 1231. It passed to the crown as a village of Morella, until Charles II granted it the title of Villa Real (Royal Town) and autonomy in 1691. It supported the Carlist side during the Carlist Wars.

Its place name is possibly due to the fact that there were five towers either in the town centre or in the municipal district.

PALACE OF SANTJOANS

Aragonese civil Gothic building, which has its origins in the 15th century, although the current structure dates from the 17th century.

It currently houses the Dinomania Museum.

WELL SQUARE AND SAN LLUÍS HERMITAGE

The Plaza del Pozo (well square) is the town's hu. Just before reaching it, we find the hermitage of San Lluís, from the 17th century, erected on the remains of an older one.

TOWN HALL

The "Casa de la Vila" was built between the 15th and 16th centuries. Its exterior is notable for the stone doorway that forms a semicircular arch and the porch flanked by segmental arches.

THE MORISH TOWER

Auxiliary tower with a quadrangular floor plan, 3.60 x 3.70 m, of which the exact date of construction is unknown. It is one of the towers referred to in the Cinctorres toponymy. There are visible remains of four floors.

CINCTORRES

PARISH CHURCH OF "SANT PERE APÒSTOL"

This church dates back to the 18th century, in the neoclassical style, and is remarkable for its majesty and its two bell towers.

CINCTORRES

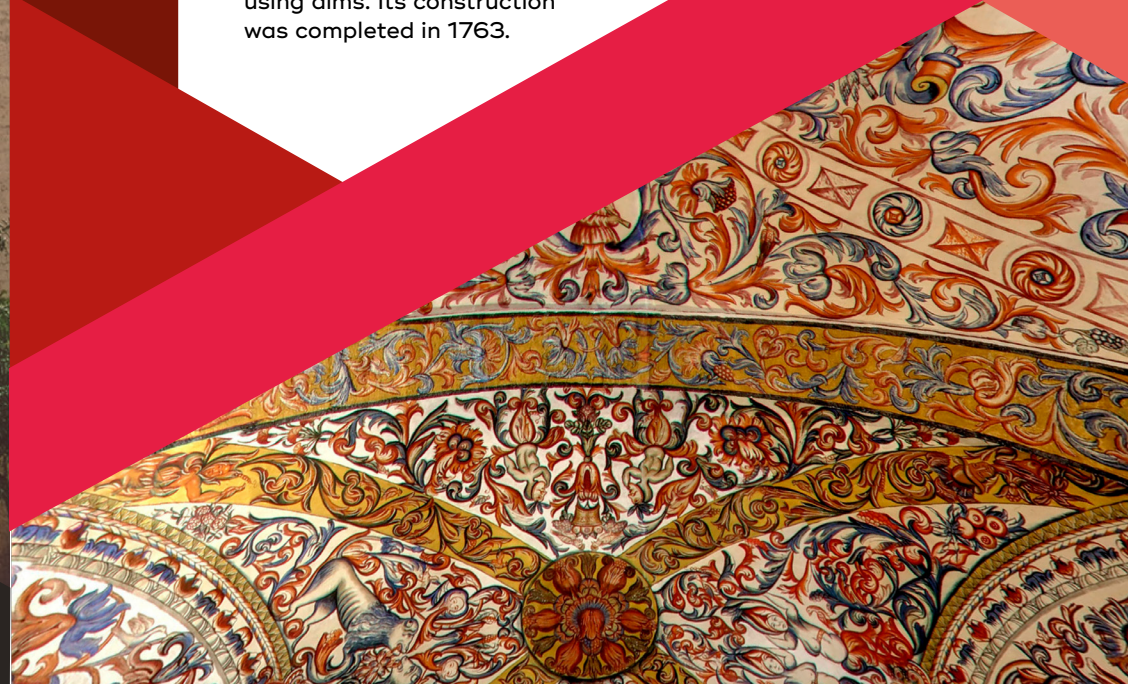

RELIGIOUS SITES

Ermita de la Mare de Déu de Gràcia: Of particular note is the bell tower outside the church, 2 kilometres from Cinctorres.

Ermita de San Marcos: Possibly the most interesting in Cinctorres, dating from the 16th century. Rectangular building with two-pointed roofs, supported by three Gothic diaphragm arches and with a side entrance. It is 9 metres wide and 20 metres long.

Ermita de San Pedro: 3 km from the village, a rectangular building with a gabled roof, supported by two diaphragm arches.

Ermita del Pilar: Next to the old washing place. It measures 6x7 metres and was built by Pascual Serret, using alms. Its construction was completed in 1763.

SITES OF DINOSAURS

The dinosaur sites have made Cincorres a world reference in palaeontology. Very close to the village, next to the hermitage of the Virgen de Gracia, you can visit the ANA site and participate in excavation simulation activities and study of palaeontology.

DINOMANIA MUSEUM

The Santjoans Palace houses a dinosaur museum with a display of hundreds of fossils unearthed and reproductions of various skeletons of some of the species found. All of this is illustrated graphically and audio-visually with interactive elements that allow visitors to learn about the world of dinosaurs in a didactic and entertaining way.

GASTRONOMY

The gastronomy of Cincorres is rich in meats and sausages, especially the more traditional ones such as veal, ham, cecina and fried meats, all accompanied by exquisite desserts such as cuajada and sweets such as “les coquetes” or “almendrados”. To finish, we recommend a small glass of “gitam” (royal dictamo) brandy for a good digestion.

ROUTES AND TRAILS

Discover the charm of the Cincorres landscape on foot. With these 7 routes that skirt the most emblematic corners of the municipality, you will find different options full of architectural charm, history and above all, lots of nature to enjoy. Long-distance trails such as the GR 331 Cami de Conquesta, short-distance trails such as the PR-CV 118 and 308 and local trails SL-CV 119, 36, 35, 34 and 33.

IN THE WILD

RAMBLA DE CELUMBRES

The Natural Site of the Rambla de Celumbres, with the canyon formed between the Roca Parda and the Roca Roja, has a great natural charm.

BIRD WATCHING

There are six birdwatching points in Cinctorres: Conreus, Pinar, Carrascal, Río, Urbano and Tallats observatories. From here you can practice ornithology and contemplate the great variety of Els Ports' wildlife.

EL BOVALAR

The Bovalar caves are located at the highest point of the municipality (1259 m.). The Sima del Bovalar is the largest in the region, with a large number of formations.

LA FAJA MUSEUM

Located in the old hospital of the XVI century, it shows the process of production and sale of the belt, through the figure of "El Faixero", who travelled around the peninsula selling the product that the women wove in the municipality.
